(CXXVIIth YEAR.) THE (No. 1841.)

MARYLAND GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1782.

ALGIERS, (a Spanish town of Barbary,) Nov. 10.

"WE HAVE RECEIVED ACCOUNTS from Oran, viz. the 30th and 31ſt of October, and on the 1ſt inſt. the Spaniſh lines in the environs of this place to the ſea. The number of ſhips, commanded by their bey, M. B. came, according to annual cuſtom, to fire vigorouſly againſt our fortifications, and have killed one lieutenant and three ſoldiers; but, according to the report of two deſerters, who have taken refuge within our walls, they had a number of men wounded and ſo killed by our troops.

GENOA, November 20.

We have received accounts, that on the 10th of October the bey of Algiers was attacked with a very violent fit of illneſs, which, joined to his advanced age, makes people fear he may not recover, which is the more to be lamented, as his death will certainly occaſion a revolution, from three competitors diſputing the ſovereign dignity, namely, the grand treaſurer, the aga, and the commandant of the horſe.

FRANKFORT on the MAIN, Nov. 28.

General Faucitt has again made his appearance here, the 25th of this month, and after a ſhort ſtay, continued his route to Hanau, in order to raiſe more German troops, at the rate of thirty pounds ſterling per man. The king of Great Britain, it is ſaid, has ſet his heart ſo much upon the raiſing this new body of troops, that he delivered in perſon to general Faucitt his inſtructions, without the medium of lord Amherſt, commander in chief, or of the ſecretary at war; but the preceding levies made in theſe countries for the crown of England, without our having ſeen hardly one man return, of all that went over to America, render them now the more ſcarce, as it is but a ſhort time ſince two Hanoverian regiments of foot were raiſed for the Eaſt-Indies. The court of Heſſe Caſſel, in order to facilitate general Faucitt's buſineſs, has given orders to ſeveral of her officers to recruit in different places. The baron de Kniphauſen, commander in chief of the Heſſian troops in America, and who has loſt an eye, is to return ſoon, and will be replaced by lieutenant-general de Loſsberg, who commands under him.

LONDON, January 3.

France has at this time in America and the Weſt-Indies 37 ſail of the line, beſides the reinforcements now going thither, without mentioning a ſyllable of the Spaniſh and Dutch, which are not ſuppoſed to be fewer than 24 ſail more. To oppoſe theſe, Great-Britain has about 25 ſail of the line in the whole; if the French can, by any means, preſerve this ſuperiority, of which there is at preſent too ſpecious an appearance, they will reſerve to themſelves their own terms to conclude the war.

Accounts from France are however circulating in town, which ſay, that count de Graſſe took with him, from the Cheſapeake to the Weſt-Indies, only 20 ſail of the line; le Caton 64, le Solitaire 64, le Reſolue 64, and le Zele 74, were left behind in Virginia, in order, it is ſuppoſed, to guard the conqueſts; du Barras, with 10 ſail of the line and two ſhips of 50 guns, made ſome diſcoveries to the ſouthward.

The Mary Anne, from St. Kitt's, arrived at Whitehaven, had a tolerable good paſſage, neither de Graſſe nor Sir Samuel Hood had, however, arrived in the Weſt-Indies when ſhe ſailed; all the iſlands were in alarm leſt the French fleet ſhould arrive firſt, not on account, merely for fear of an attack, but as they might cut off the ſupplies they were in daily expectation of receiving from Europe. All the ſettlements are much diſtreſſed for proviſions.

The letters brought over by the Sophia Julia Fredericia Danish Eaſt-Indiaman, from Tranquenar, confirm the account of taking of Surat; the defeat of Hyder Ally, by ſir Eyre Coote; and of the preparations which were going on at Madraſs and Bengal, for further operations againſt the Dutch ſettlements; there was no account of Monſ. Suffrein being arrived at the Mauritius, to reinforce Monſ. d'Orves, who had the command of the fleet. Admiral Kempenfelt, with five ſail of the line and two frigates, was come round the Peninſula, from Bombay, in order to aſſiſt and ſecond the operations of the company's forces. The Eaſt-India company have, however, letters of later date than thoſe brought by this ſhip.

The 58th and 102d regiments of foot are embarked, or on board the outward bound ſhips for the Eaſt-Indies.

The whole force that can be ſpared to join with Sir G. Rodney, will hardly put our ſquadron in the Weſt-Indies, on any degree of equality with the enemy; but our home defence and north ſea are yet to be provided for.

It is ſomething remarkable, that the commanders of no fewer than four ſhips of the line, on ſervice of being ordered for a particular ſtation, on a particular ſervice, and a particular day aforeſaid, all made an excuſe of illneſs, and reſigned; among theſe are two of thoſe commanders who had the moſt conſiderable and large fortunes, who applied for commands as ſoon as the war with France commenced.

The cannon which were taken out of the Terrible man of war, of 74 guns, burnt off the Cheſapeake, on account of the damage ſhe had received in the engagement with de Graſſe's ſquadron, were landed at New-York, in order to be mounted on ſome new works raiſing there, and on Staten-Iſland, for the defence of New-York.

According to letters from Portſmouth, the cables and cordage, taken on board the French tranſports, prizes to the Agamemnon man of war, are ſufficient for the complete equipment of ſix ſhips of the line, all new, and of the beſt quality; there are alſo ſoldiers cloathing for 4000 men complete; the wine and flour are the moſt inconſiderable parts of the cargoes, but will be a great loſs to the enemy.

The following is told by gentlemen of veracity, who are lately arrived in a cartel from America, as certain fact; "When the capitulation was about being ſigned by general Waſhington and the French officers, the former was exceedingly deſirous to know, if one Arnold was not in one of the Britiſh poſts, at York or Glouceſter? a common reply was given, no. The general doubted, and aſked the ſame again; the ſame anſwer was given; Mr. Waſhington then wrote to lord Cornwallis to declare, on his honour, whether Mr. Arnold was there or not? a ſatisfactory, that no capitulation would be made for him on any account whatever. If one Arnold had been there, his fate was certain!

As far as can be judged from the accounts which have hitherto paſſed, the preſent year's expence will not be leſs than 33 millions; and it is ſaid the loan will be 16 millions, in order to fund a part of the unfunded debts, which at preſent bears ſo hard on government.

Diſpatches, it is ſaid, have been received over land at the India-houſe, from governor Haſtings, at Bengal, containing a minute and explicit account of his proceedings during his governorſhip, and particularly giving the company a full relation of all the circumſtances which gave riſe to the late war in the Carnatic, and how far it was unavoidable in him to purſue the meaſures he did on that occaſion.

Admiral Edwards, lately returned from Newfoundland, is ſucceeded by admiral Gambier, who is to take the command of that ſtation early in the ſpring.

A letter from Weymouth brings an account, that a cartel ſhip is arrived there from Cherburgh, by which it is learnt, that on the 22d ult. there was ſuch a violent hurricane in the harbour there, that ſeveral veſſels were ſunk, and double that number thrown on ſhore, moſt of which were ſo much damaged that they will be unfit for further ſervice, that a great deal of damage was done on ſhore, a whole range of ware-houſes and ſeveral old dwelling houſes were blown down, and ſome lives loſt.

PROTEST.

The following is entered againſt the proceedings in the houſe of lords on Tueſday laſt.

It was propoſed to leave out, after the ſecond paragraph of the motion for the addreſs, the remaining part of the motion, and to inſert,

"And we will, without delay, apply ourſelves with united hearts, to propoſe and digeſt ſuch counſels, to be laid at his royal feet, as may excite the efforts, point the arms, and command the confidence of all his ſubjects."

After long debate, the queſtion was put thereupon.

It was reſolved in the negative.

Then the queſtion was put, That the motion, as firſt propoſed, do ſtand part of the queſtion?

It was reſolved in the affirmative.

DISSENTIENT,

For reaſons too often urged in vain, for theſe laſt ſeven years, againſt the ruinous proſecution of the unjuſt war carrying on by his majeſty's miniſters againſt the people of North-America, and too fatally confirmed by repeated expence, and the late diſgraceful loſs of a ſecond army, to ſtand in need of repetition.

BOSTON, April

Extract of a letter from Breſt, dated February 4.

"The capture of lord Cornwallis has produced here the moſt agreeable and lively ſenſations, though we knew, we were convinced before, that we had brave allies.

"The naval armament, commanded by the count de Guichen, that ſailed from this port the 13th of December, foon met with a violent ſtorm, during which admiral Kempenfelt took eleven merchant ſhips which ſailed heavily, and were at the diſtance of three or four leagues from the reſt of the fleet. Theſe lagging veſſels were defended by a ſhip of the line, the Active, of 74 guns, which fought for an hour and a half, and gloriouſly ſuſtained the attack of the greater part of the Engliſh ſquadron. Our fleet directed by the Ardent, returned to this port in the ſpace of three weeks; a number diſmaſted, and ſome of the three decked ſhips, but without any other loſs than that of the eleven ſhips, a ſhip of 80 guns, and another of 74, with ſome tranſports, having continued their courſe for Martinico.

"For the public ſervice, thanks to Heaven, we are in no want either of ſailors, ſoldiery, or money; and the orders of our able miniſtry, have been executed with ſuch diſpatch, that one fleet is now in a condition to put to ſea, and even more numerous than when it firſt failed. The ſeveral diviſions are going to their particular deſtinations not known at preſent; and the brave de la Motte Piquet commands one of them, compoſed of ten ſhips of the line, of which the invincible and the Bretagne of 110 guns make a part. We have reaſon to believe, that the approaching campaign will be a very rigorous one, and even more brilliant than the laſt. There is no talk of peace, ſince England obſtinately refuſes to conſent to the independence of America. The marquis la Fayette and the count de Noailles, who arrived in the Alliance, after a paſſage of twenty-three days, will embark to-morrow for America, in the Emerald frigate."

NEW-LONDON, April 3.

The privateer ſchooner Wanzel, captain Fanning, was taken on the 19th ult. by the Adamant, a 50 gun ſhip, who taking out all the ſchooner's people, except two, ordered her into New-York, but ſhe ſoon after run aſhore in a fog, on the weſt end of Long-Iſland, where ſhe was loſt; the two people left in the ſchooner travelled down the iſland, and on Tueſday laſt came to town, accompanied by a ſergeant, deſerter from the enemy. The above deſerter ſays, that three ſhips of the line have lately arrived at New-York from the Weſt-Indies; and that the troops at New-York are buſily employed in fortifying that place.

A few nights ago, three refugee boats from Long-Iſland, went about ſix miles up Connecticut river, and took poſſeſſion of two veſſels, which they attempted to get down the river, but the wind coming a-head they were obliged to quit them, hailing down the people in the cabin; they afterwards carried off a ferry-boat and one or two other boats.

Wedneſday a ſloop, Smith, maſter, belonging to Norwich, arrived in the river from North-Carolina.

PROVIDENCE, March 30.

On Tueſday a French frigate arrived at Newport, in 42 days from Breſt, having on board about eighty thouſand pounds ſterling in ſpecie, for the payment of the French troops. She ſailed in company with a fleet of 150 ſail, bound for the Weſt-Indies, 27 of which were ſhips of the line.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.

Wedneſday morning laſt arrived here the ſhip General Monk, a copper bottomed Britiſh cruiſer, mounting 18 nine pounders, —— Rodgers, commander, and 150 men; ſhe was captured on the 8th inſt. in the bay of Delaware, after a ſharp conflict of 30 minutes, by the Hyder Ally, mounting only 6 nine and 10 ſix pounders, capt. Barney of this port. In the engagement 33 men were killed and wounded of the enemy, and but 25 were killed and wounded on board the Hyder Ally. The intrepid behaviour of capt. Barney and his ſhip's company, in having compelled an enemy of far ſuperior force, to ſtrike his colours to the American flag, does them the higheſt honour.

By the boatſwain and gunner's mate of the brig Lovely Sally, capt. Vallance, who arrived here on Wedneſday evening laſt from the capes, we have received the following authentic intelligence, viz. That on Monday the 8th inſt. while they were at anchor under Cape May, a pilot belonging to the outward bound fleet, went on ſhore, and on his return brought information, that there were ſeveral veſſels belonging to the enemy, coming round the cape, and adviſed capt. Vallance to get under way as well as the reſt of the fleet. In conſequence of this advice, they weighed anchor, crowded all the ſail they could, and ſtood up the river, to avoid falling into the enemy's hands; that having ſailed about one mile, they unfortunately run on a flat; that while they lay there, the late Britiſh ſloop of war called the General Monk, came up, which induced them to ſtrike their colours; after which, as the ſloop of war was paſſing them, ſhe, wantonly and inhumanly, fired a volley of ſmall arms into the brig Lovely Sally, whereby the chief mate and pilot were wounded; and ſent a boat with 25 or 30 men, who took poſſeſſion of the brig; but after they having poſſeſſion of her for about an hour, the brig's crew (who upon them) retook her, ſecured the people, got her off, and ſailed up the river about the diſtance of a half mile, hoping to get into deeper water and ſave the brig, in which they had great hopes, as they had but little to fear from the ſhip of war, ſhe being then engaged with the Hyder Ally; but in a moment their hopes were blaſted, by running again on the flats, and in this ſituation, ſeeing other veſſels coming up, which they ſuppoſed belonged to the enemy, they thought it adviſe-able to make their escape, which they effected by taking the Admiral's boat and their own, and rowing to the shore. They afterwards understood that the enemy had got the brig off.

The ship General Greene ran on shore at the same time, and it is feared, has fallen into the hands of the enemy.

Had it not been for the above unfortunate circumstances, the Fair American, together with the rest of the British convoys, which now arrive day, would in all probability, have shared a similar fate to the General Monk.

So sanguine were the British who had taken possession of the Lovely Sally, that when they saw the General Monk engaged, they declared, she would take two such vessels as her antagonist, with all the ease imaginable; which we are sorry to say, but they were struck with astonishment, when they saw her humbled and led off in triumph by the Hyder Ally.

April 16. Yesterday morning the letter of marque Friendship, capt. Hall, arrived here, after a passage of 14 days, from Port-au Prince. This vessel brings us advice of the arrival of 27 Spanish ships of the line, with 12,000 troops, at Cape François from Cadiz. These forces are no doubt destined to act in conjunction with those of his Most Christian Majesty in the attack on Jamaica, which, in all probability, must be subdued by so powerful an armament.
